

What to do in a lockdown

How do you keep children entertained whilst self-isolating at home?

How do you ensure well-being of all your family?

How to be 'in the moment' and appreciate time at home.

Here are some links with helpful hints/tips for keeping young people entertained, amused and ensure both their well-being and your own!...

- Positive passport: encourage your children to think of positive thoughts throughout the day and note them down and then at the end of the day share them together and give your child a stamp (or any alternative) for an "abundance of positive thoughts."

- Twinkl: free parent resources -www.twinkl.co.uk/offer – apply code in the code box online- PARENTSTWINKLHELPS
- Daily PE lesson for children available by subscribing to PE partners YouTube Channel <https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCusMrDGjLgNJqiKASS3Peow> They will focus on the learning objective and transferable skill that would be covered in that weeks #SPIRALPE lessons. They'll also be posting lots of ideas for Physically Active Learning.

- It is a good idea to keep the daily structure that your child is used to, you can do this by using a visual timetable to show them what they are going to do today. Example here: <http://www.downssideup.com/2012/07/how-to-make-visual-timetable.html>
Top tip get your child to make their own squares
- Make a list of the jobs around the house (age appropriate) and next to each job put a price, once they have done that job, they receive the money. For example: putting toys in a box 10p.
- Create a tuck shop for snacks, open it in the morning and in the afternoon with a price list, give your child an amount per day to spend.
- Reward, reward, reward! Keep the positivity by rewarding your child for good behaviour. Use a medium/large sized box/tub/jar with the aim to fill it to the top, put handfuls in at a time, not just one, so your child can watch it filling up. You can use any household items to fill it, once it is full, they receive a reward.

Mindfulness

Remember self-care is KEY!

Take some time for yourself, unwind and relax.

Easier said than done (we know!) but even if its stopping for 5 minutes every few hours, you need that break too!
